

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

4.1 Conclusion

After the report was finished, it can be concluded that the translator's profound knowledge of either the source and target language or the field of study to which the text belong is badly needed.

The results of the analysis also proof the importance of using translation procedure, such as transference, naturalization, and cultural equivalent in order to reach a good and communicative translation. These procedures are commonly used to translate special terms like terms used in medical field.

4.2 Suggestion

After finishing her report and getting the result of the report, the writer had some suggestions which hopefully will be useful for the students who will choose translation as their topic of report. First, it will be better if the students collect various data from another field of study, other than medical field. Second, the students should learn more about method and procedure in translation.
