ABSTRACT

The progress of communication and information technology in this time have influence in growth of data, with existence of growth of communication and information technology enable the existence of informationforwarding process which quickly relevant at the same time.

.In writing of this final duty, writer use prototype method research descriptively research where in it's data collecting has conducted by using observation technique that is with systematic perception to research object so can give an objective result. Besides that, writer also use interview technique with resource person namely Mr. Agus Hikmatullah, as owner of PT Hurip Utama. Writer also has been conduct the research bu using book can more comperehending the problem that is faces passing reference book and literature as reference in finishing the problem while fir this it's software, this web use Visual Basic 6.0 and Database MYSQL server 2000.

PT. Hurip Utama as one of the vendor in Indonesia has confronted with a transation, of ten times. That cause of requirement of information system specially order information system on-line as appliance assist absolutely needed and felt can give effective and efficient in higher level

Keyword : management, purchase, prototype