ABSTRACT

Shop Primatech is one of firm which move at computer sell area, on product sell process that is at primatech's shop stills was optimal, because of on consumer ordering process shall come directly to shop, so requires time to do transactions. To the effect writer research is subject to be know walking system, design and implementation is ordering and sell information system at primatech's shop. Observational utility intends that add knowledge and science is implementation altogether that theory into firm.

Observational method that is used is descriptive method which is method which just figure and boiling down various condition, situation or a variety variable. Systems developmental method which be utilized is method prototype , on method prototype developed system phase available lack on previous phase gets to be done by direct increase without has to solve until beforehand last phase, software that utilized by writer to make application program is window as operating system, Xampp Mysql as database apache as server web and DreamweaverCS4 as editor to write script is PHP .

Ordering and sell information system that makes to be expected can maximize shop product sell primatech and waters down consumer in do ordering because done by online ala transactions and payment process in cash by use of transfer system among account.

Key Word : Ordering and Sell, Prototype, Analyze.