ABSTRACT

At the moment computerization technology more bloom, so from that in a company at the moment be wanted a when a company not use computer system likely very difficult to compete with company other so much. salary processing in company city cleanliness region bandung still done use microsoft exel and security undercommunication from archivess, equally system of pay at company city cleanliness region bandung at the moment not yet good. so from that with be maked it this application is author hope to company city cleanliness region bandung can better in do the employee remuneration information system and can compete with companies other.

In this remuneration information system planning is author uses descriptive method. with do observation, data collecting and describe event that in place watchfulness. while system development method that used author prototype. besides also use visual software basic 6.0 as the programming language and microsoft sql server 2000 as the database.

End result from this watchfulness builds a remuneration application in company city cleanliness region bandung that functioned to help part sdm in do salary calculation so that correcter and accurate also can to give information to all employees and general director

Keyword : information system, remuneration, remuneration information system