ABSTRACT

Information Technology used to process data, including processing, compiling, menyimpan, data manipulation in so many way of to yield information which with quality.

In technological growth of human being contemplative faculties and computer hence problem faced even also more and more to expand. This matter also have to be faced by SMK PGRI 3 Cimahi in the case of System Registration of New Student. Before using officer computer part of registration of mengalamai difficulty of new student data because of manual still process that is with in writing just in book In data collecting method, writer do the interview and observation.

While its system development method use type prototype method giving idea to user and also maker about way of system will function in the form of wholy. Information system implementation registration of student just conducted made of an application software registration of new student for the SMK OF PGRI 3 CIMAHI use Visual Basic Language Programming. With information system registration of new student which is writer developed, hence the problems can be overcome, so that system registration of new remains can walk faster and easy too.

Keyword : Information System, Registration, New Student*