ABSTRACT

Tata Cellular is ones of business unit moving in sale cell phone account. In order to make this business unit activities running in good condition it must have a good and effective system to. In operational activities, Tata Cell still using the manual system that is by registered in book and its enumeration use appliance count calculator. Which causing the information and report needed by this unit bussiness running slowly.

The research method of the sale ang purchase information sytem create by using a prototype method with use research system like flowmap, context diagram, data flow diagram and design tools. The database was proposed using ERD then the gathering data technics using the observation, interview and study literature. Implementation program using single computer.

Applied of electrical cell transaction information system scheme at Arranging Tata Cell by using Visual Ianguage of Basic And access microsoft database, expected can water down in managing entire all data, without having to happened mistake in managing the data.

Keywords :
Scheme, Information System, Transaction