ABSTRACT

Information technology is used for data processing, including processing, preparing, storing, manipulating data in various ways to produce quality information. In the development of computer technology and the power of human thought, the problem faced by any growing.

It also must face the Office of Religious Affairs in the Central Cimahi Marriage Registration information System. Before using the computer employee experiencing a difficulty to record the registration process is still manual registrant caused by the write in the book. In the method of data collection, the author conducted observations and interviews. While the system development method using a prototype method which gives an idea for the manufacturer nor the user about how the system will function in a complete form. Implementation of information systems made marriage registration is done by a software application for marriage registration office of Religious Affairs Central Cimahi using Visual Basic programming language.

With the marriage registration information system which the author developed, then the problem can be overcome, so the marriage registration system can run more quickly and easily.

Keywords: Information System, Registration, Marriages.