CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

4.1 The Conclusion

During doing the job training in the Museum Geologi Bandung as a receptionist, interpreter, and tour guide there were many experiences got by the writer. Being a receptionist, the writer had to work professionally because the job as a receptionist is related with public service so the writer should be able to control the attitude. The experiences that the writer got as long as becoming the interpreter and tour guide were that the writer should master English well, beside that the writer should be friendly and honest. Those are previously the criteria to be a good interpreter or tour guide in terms of skill. However, not only those which are explained in the preceding explanation that we should be able to master English well and also to be friendly and honest, the knowledge about the tourism object is very important to give information correctly. By having the criteria that are explained previously, there will be guarantee that we can be more confident then we can enjoy in working.

4.2 Suggestion

4.2.1 To the company:

a. Museum Geologi Bandung can facilitate the students who are doing the job training by providing facility that can help them to work, like a manual book concerning to the work field that would be borrowed by the students.

b. Museum Geologi Bandung is expected to give training for the students who are doing the job training before they start to work in the work field.

4.2.2 To Faculty of Letters:

a. Job training activity is very useful and important for the students, so if it's possible, the faculty can create other activity that will help the students to face the real work field beside the job training activity.

b. Faculty of Letters is composed of English Department and Japanese Department, so there would hopefully be a job training that can cover those two departments.

4.2.3 To English Department:

a. It is expected that there would be cooperation between the English Departments with the institution, so that it can facilitate the students in choosing the place for their job training.

b. It is expected for the English Department to give the guiding technique subject to support the students to face the real work field.

4.2.4 To students who will do the next writing

a. If possible try to choose place for job training based on your interest.

b. Student who will do the next writing is suggested to note all information during the job training to make easier in writing the final paper.
