ABSTRACT

Information system sales of drinks and foods is one of the systems of information contained on CV. Adi Makmur Jaya, information system aims to manage sales transactions data. In this activity the system information that is very important because it is designed to prevent the occurrence of an error in the implementation of procedures of data processing sales transactions can be done as well as possible. Information system sales of drinks and foods used in CV. Adi Makmur Jaya in the processing and storage of data are still manually or is written in a book not yet use special applications software handles the sales process, therefore it is necessary the presence of a computerized information system based in particular on the administrative information system by developing sales of drinks and foods in order to facilitate the processing of data as well as the sale of drinks and foods so the drink and food sales reports.

Sales information system includes data processing transactions, activities undertaken and research obtained a sales transaction data as well as reports on CV. Adi Makmur Jaya, as for a process that is done to the sales information system developed drinks and foods that is by using the method of prototype and design is done by making a flow folder, data flow diagrams (DFD), while modeling the data described by the ERD.

After going through the stages of the implementation of the processing results obtained sales faster, more presentable and data storage in the reporting time is shorter than previously. In the beverage sales reports aim to provide the information required so that the right decisions can be taken to help the performance of activities that occur on the part of the Administration in order to be implemented effectively and efficiently. Software application builder information system this is the Netbeans IDE with the MySQL database. Based on testing performed, the system is built to resolve the problems that exist in the system.

Keywords: information systems, data, and process the sale.