ABSTRACT

Academic Information System is a system that gave the service information in the form of academic data. The existence of this critical information systems. In this case, SMA Negeri 1 Cileunyi Kabupaten Bandung used as a place of research because academic information systems in schools has not been managed well so often complicates the implementation of academic activities exist, such as processing student data, teacher data processing, processing of student , the processing of student absences.

For software development, methodology used is a prototype methodology to the stages of data collection, design, evaluation, and also depicted in the object-oriented modeling language or known as UML (Unified Model Language).

Target which wish reached from information system making this academic, that is to water down the student candidate to get the information in around acceptance, needed miscellaneous and registration. Others, to increase efficiency and effectiveness for student is so that expected able to give the information which aktual of about activity academic.

Key words: web, social-network, education, academic information system, sma negeri 1 cileunyi