Appendix 1: Total Data Based on the Articles

1. The article entitled "Voting system confuses villagers" issued on 16th March 2009.
    1. In an effort to increase public awareness of voting processes and encourage widespread participation, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) and the Islamic Student Association (HMI) organized a simulation in Waehaong, Maluku.

2. The article entitled "Agenda chaos as open campaigns kick off" issued on 17th March 2009.
    1. Despite the open campaign period officially kicking off Monday, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) had not settled a clear agenda on political rallies until late in that day, causing confusion among some party bodies.
    2. The KPU issued a regulation on the schedule for the open election campaign Friday, which allowed four parties to hold rallies on the same day.

3. The article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009.
    1. Election activist have repeatedly warned the KPU to anticipate the possibility of vote manipulation.
    2. Many observers have warned the KPU against issuing a regulation on seat distribution since it would draw public criticism.
    3. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) said a total of 4,753,953 workers would be sent to polling stations to ensure all votes are counted on the same day as the elections.
    4. The KPU insists that vote rigging and vote buying involving legislative candidates of the same party is subject to criminal charges.

5. In response to the Constitutional Court's ruling, the KPU is preparing regulations to determine the distribution of seats for legislative candidates.
6. The KPU also said that the votes marked in a party's column would be directly transferred to candidates with the most votes.

4. The article entitled "KPU prepares ballots for blind voters" issued on 18th March 2009.

1. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has agreed to supply special facilities for voters with disabilities, to help make it easier for them to vote in the upcoming polls.
2. The KPU said Tuesday it would specially designed ballots for visually impaired voters using templates with Braille print to enable them to vote.
3. The KPU say it expects voters to spent two minutes at the most inside polling booths, to ensure vote tabulation can be finished before the end of the election day.

5. The article entitled "E. Flores office warns of flow participation" issued on 18th March 2009.

1. The KPU has put Flores on its distribution priority list as the area has been categorized as one that is difficult to reach.
2. The KPU also said that any delay to the election would mean extra expenses.

6. The article entitled "KPU releases fourth campaign schedule" issued on 19th March 2009.

1. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has released a fourth version of the open-campaign schedule, which several parties claim unfairly benefit the ruling Democratic Party.

2. The KPU also formally apologized for the adjustments made to the campaign schedule in the past two days.
3. The KPU and the Democratic Party, however, flatly denied the allegations.

7. The article entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009.

1. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has rescheduled delivery of ballots to regional poll commission to March 19 at the latest, but the deadline is still hard to meet.
2. The KPU planned to print 700 million ballots for the legislative elections on April 9 with some 11,000 candidates from 38 political parties contesting 560 seats in the House of Representatives.
3. KPU has asked the Indonesian Military (TNI) to speed up distribution of the ballot papers in remote district such as those in Papua.
4. The KPU announced revision of eligible voters last week, which saw the number of voters swell by 196,777 to 171,265,442.

8. The article entitled "Fears intensify over potential voter list fraud" issued on 20th March 2009.

1. The KPU should further explain to the government and to us why the problem remain unresolved.

9. The article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009.

1. A coalition of civil society groups have lambasted the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for being too slow in making preparation for the general elections.
2. The KPU had claimed to have distributed 75 percent of election materials although it acknowledged to have been behind schedule.

3. This shows that the KPU is not doing a good enough job to handle this election.

10. The article entitled "Pressure mounts for KPU to fix voter lists" issued on 23th March 2009.

1. Other politicians and observers have expressed pessimism over the KPU's ability to do its job, and have called for a delay of the elections.
2. The General Elections Monitoring Body (Bawaslu) said Sunday it had repeatedly warned the KPU about potential voter list problems, but to no avail.

11. The article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009.

1. Aside from the errors and logistics problems, the KPU also has yet to print ballot papers to be used by the most recently registered voters.
2. Facing a logistical difficulties, and with less than three weeks before the legislative elections, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) has permitted the use of stickers to amend ballot papers printed incorrectly.
3. The KPU is responsible for the production of more than 700 million ballot paper for the legislative elections, scheduled for April 9.
4. The KPU and the Indonesian Military have signed an agreement to deliver ballot papers from regencies in Papua to district and village levels.

12. The article entitled "East Java sets ban precedent: Khofifah" issued on 23th March 2009.

1. On Friday, the KPU disclosed that its preliminary investigations had discovered many voters had been registered with similar citizen numbers, adding that it was still checking the validity of the voter list data.

13. The article entitled "Preparation for elections inadequate: Students" issued on 24th March 2009.
    1. Student groups have called on the government and the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for more transparency over the real condition of their preparations for the upcoming legislative elections.

14. The article entitled "TNI to help distribute ballot papers" issued on 24th March 2009.
    1. The KPU has yet to replace papers which arrived damage in some areas.
    2. As the General Elections Commissions (KPU) struggles to address poll material hitches, the Indonesian Military (TNI) has come to the rescue.
    3. The KPU printed about 700 million ballot papers for the legislative elections, distribution of the papers to regencies is the responsibility of the printing companies.
15. The article entitled "Govt ready to help KPU fix voter lists" issued on 24th March 2009.
    1. On Monday, the KPU insisted the final list of eligible voters was valid, and accused its critics of attempting to disrupt elections preparations.

16. The article entitled "Elections under serious threat as ballot papers undistributed" issued on 24th March 2009.
    1. Long before the printing of ballot papers began, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) was aware of the geographical challenges that might hamper distribution of poll materials to remote areas.
    2. The KPU therefore set an early March deadline for poll materials to reach capitals of far-flung provinces, such as Maluku, Papua, and West Papua.

17. The article entitled "KPU under fire over voter list violations in East Java" issued on 25th March 2009.
    1. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has come under increasing fire over the alleged voter list fraud in East Java.

18. The article entitled "KPU considers ban on open campaigning" issued on 25th March 2009.
    1. The KPU held a series of debates between candidates ahead of the presidential and vice presidential election in 2004, but many viewed the program as a formality, rather than a test of competence.
    2. The KPU gave no prior announcement regarding its plan to ban open campaigning, but it appears that its stance is quite clear.
    3. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) is considering banning open campaigning from the upcoming presidential race altogether, calling it an outdated practice that is no longer an effective way to educate voters on a candidates platforms.

19. The article entitled "An incompleteness idiot's guide to voting on April 9" issued on 25th March 2009.
    1. The KPU is now working hard to familiarize voters with this untried system, but a number of recent mock votes have showed that up to 40 percent of voters still don't understand.
20. The article entitled "Experts predict chaos after April 9 elections" issued on 27th March 2009.
    1. The KPU says more than 171 million people are registered to vote, but the voter lists have of late been the subject of heated debate.

21. The article entitled "Millions to skip polls as KPU fixes voter list" issued on 30th March 2009.

1. As the General Elections Commissions (KPU) fixes the much-debated final voter lists (DPT), about 4,6 million Indonesian migrant workers look certain to miss the polls.

22. The article entitled "KPU opens possibility for elections delay" issued on 30th March 2009.

1. The KPU previously maintained the elections would run simultaneously, despite the calls for delay in some regions for religious reasons and the hampered distribution of polling material.
2. In a plenary meeting Sunday, the KPU decided to let regional polls bodies (KPUD) have the final say concerning elections rescheduling.

23. The article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009.

1. The preparations for the big day have been marred by tremendous logistical problems, incorrect printing of ballots, ballot shortages, the wrong ballots sent to some provinces and districts, uncertain campaign schedules, the problem of transportation of election materials and many more problems have all pointed to the incompetence of the current General Elections Committee (KPU).
2. The previous KPU, despite being marred by corruption cases, and charges, did an excellent job.
3. This could be blamed on the quality of the KPU itself.

24. The article entitled "Millions of unregistered migrant workers will skip polls" issued on 31st March 2009.

1. The General Elections Commission (KPU) has admitted many Indonesian citizens working 'illegally' overseas are still not registered to vote in the April 9 legislative elections.

25. The article entitled "Polls may be the 'most troubled' ever" issued on 31st March 2009.

1. To overcome various problems such as logistics and the issue of legislative seats for women, the KPU earlier requested government regulation-in-lieu-of-law, but the government refused to issue them.

26. The article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009.

1. The KPU declined Tuesday to identify candidates failing to submit financial reports and bank account numbers by March 9, subsequently failing to act against them as required by the law.
2. "The law and regulations are not the problem, the problem is the KPU," he said.
3. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) does not seem to have the political weight to take action against election candidates failing to report on campaign funding despite mounting pressures from Election Supervisory Body (Bawaslu).
4. The Bawaslu has called for the establishment of a committee to deal with alleged violations by the KPU of election law, especially its failure to disqualify party chapters in violation of campaign rules.
5. KPU has been under fire on a series of irregularities, including alleged voter list fraud and slow distribution of election papers to regions, threatening the legislative election's credibility and the planned simultaneous balloting day, (except for the East Nusa Tenggara regencies of Lembata and East Flores).

Appendix 2: Data Based on the Sidedness Representation

1. Negative Representation

1. Despite the open campaign period officially kicking off Monday, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) had not settled a clear agenda on political rallies until late in that day, causing confusion among some party bodies. (Taken from the article entitled "Agenda chaos as open campaigns kick off" issued on 17th March 2009).
2. Election activist have repeatedly warned the KPU to anticipate the possibility of vote manipulation. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).
3. Many observers have warned the KPU against issuing a regulation on seat distribution since it would draw public criticism. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).
4. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has released a fourth version of the open-campaign schedule, which several parties claim unfairly benefit the ruling Democratic Party. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU releases fourth campaign schedule" issued on 19th March 2009).
5. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has rescheduled delivery of ballots to regional poll commission to March 19 at the latest, but the deadline is still hard to meet. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009).
6. The KPU should further explain to the government and to us why the problem remain unresolved. (Taken from the article entitled "Fears intensify over potential voter list fraud" issued on 20th March 2009).
7. A coalition of civil society groups have lambasted the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for being too slow in making preparation for the general elections. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009).

8. This shows that the KPU is not doing a good enough job to handle this election. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009).
9. Other politicians and observers have expressed pessimism over the KPU's ability to do its job, and have called for a delay of the elections. (Taken from the article entitled "Pressure mounts for KPU to fix voter lists" issued on 23th March 2009).
10. The General Elections Monitoring Body (Bawaslu) said Sunday it had repeatedly warned the KPU about potential voter list problems, but to no avail. (Taken from the article entitled "Pressure mounts for KPU to fix voter lists" issued on 23th March 2009).
11. Aside from the errors and logistics problems, the KPU also has yet to print ballot papers to be used by the most recently registered voters. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009).
12. Student groups have called on the government and the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for more transparency over the real condition of their preparations for the upcoming legislative elections. (Taken from the article entitled "Preparation for elections inadequate: Students" issued on 24th March 2009).
13. The KPU has yet to replace papers which arrived damage in some areas. (Taken from the article entitled "TNI to help distribute ballot papers" issued on 24th March 2009).
14. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has come under increasing fire over the alleged voter list fraud in East Java. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU under fire over voter list violations in East Java" issued on 25th March 2009).
15. The KPU held a series of debates between candidates ahead of the presidential and vice presidential election in 2004, but many viewed the program as a formality, rather than a test of competence. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU considers ban on open campaigning" issued on 25th March 2009).

16. The KPU is now working hard to familiarize voters with this untried system, but a number of recent mock votes have showed that up to 40 percent of voters still don't understand. (Taken from the article entitled "An incompleteness idiot's guide to voting on April 9" issued on 25th March 2009).
17. The KPU says more than 171 million people are registered to vote, but the voter lists have of late been the subject of heated debate. (Taken from the article entitled "Experts predict chaos after April 9 elections" issued on 27th March 2009).
18. As the General Elections Commissions (KPU) fixes the much-debated final voter lists (DPT), about 4,6 million Indonesian migrant workers look certain to miss the polls. (Taken from the article entitled "Millions to skip polls as KPU fixes voter list" issued on 30th March 2009).
19. The preparations for the big day have been marred by tremendous logistical problems, incorrect printing of ballots, ballot shortages, the wrong ballots sent to some provinces and districts, uncertain campaign schedules, the problem of transportation of election materials and many more problems have all pointed to the incompetence of the current General Elections Committee (KPU). (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).
20. The previous KPU, despite being marred by corruption cases, and charges, did an excellent job. (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).
21. This could be blamed on the quality of the KPU itself. (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).

22. “The law and regulations are not the problem, the problem is the KPU,” he said. (Taken from the article entitled “Belligerent candidates escaping punishment” issued on 1st April 2009).
23. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) does not seem to have the political weight to take action against election candidates failing to report on campaign funding despite mounting pressures from Election Supervisory Body (Bawaslu). (Taken from the article entitled “Belligerent candidates escaping punishment” issued on 1st April 2009).
24. The Bawaslu has called for the establishment of a committee to deal with alleged violations by the KPU of election law, especially its failure to disqualify party chapters in violation of campaign rules. (Taken from the article entitled “Belligerent candidates escaping punishment” issued on 1st April 2009).
25. KPU has been under fire on a series of irregularities, including alleged voter list fraud and slow distribution of election papers to regions, threatening the legislative election’s credibility and the planned simultaneous balloting day, (except for the East Nusa Tenggara regencies of Lembata and East Flores). (Taken from the article entitled “Belligerent candidates escaping punishment” issued on 1st April 2009).

2. Positive Representation

1. In an effort to increase public awareness of voting processes and encourage widespread participation, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) and the Islamic Student Association (HMI) organized a simulation in Waehaong, Maluku. (Taken from the article entitled “Voting system confuses villagers” issued on 16th March 2009).
2. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has agreed to supply special facilities for voters with disabilities, to help make it easier for them to vote in the upcoming polls. (Taken from the article entitled “KPU prepares ballots for blind voters” issued on 18th March 2009).

3. The KPU said Tuesday it would specially designed ballots for visually impaired voters using templates with Braille print to enable them to vote. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU prepares ballots for blind voters" issued on 18th March 2009).
4. On Friday, the KPU disclosed that its preliminary investigations had discovered many voters had been registered with similar citizen numbers, adding that it was still checking the validity of the voter list data. (Taken from the article entitled "East Java sets ban precedent: Khofifah" issued on 23th March 2009).
5. On Monday, the KPU insisted the final list of eligible voters was valid, and accused its critics of attempting to disrupt elections preparations. (Taken from the article entitled "Govt ready to help KPU fix voter lists" issued on 24th March 2009).
6. Long before the printing of ballot papers began, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) was aware of the geographical challenges that might hamper distribution of poll materials to remote areas. (Taken from the article entitled "Elections under serious threat as ballot papers undistributed" issued on 24th March 2009).
7. As the General Elections Commissions (KPU) struggles to address poll material hitches, the Indonesian Military (TNI) has come to the rescue. (Taken from the article entitled "TNI to help distribute ballot papers" issued on 24th March 2009).
8. The KPU gave no prior announcement regarding its plan to ban open campaigning, but it appears that its stance is quite clear. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU considers ban on open campaigning" issued on 25th March 2009).
9. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) is considering banning open campaigning from the upcoming presidential race altogether, calling it an outdated practice that is no longer an effective way to educate voters on a candidates platforms. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU considers ban on open campaigning" issued on 25th March 2009).

10. The KPU previously maintained the elections would run simultaneously, despite the calls for delay in some regions for religious reasons and the hampered distribution of polling material. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU opens possibility for elections delay" issued on 30th March 2009).
11. To overcome various problems such as logistics and the issue of legislative seats for women, the KPU earlier requested government regulation-in-lieu-of-law, but the government refused to issue them. (Taken from the article entitled "Polls may be the 'most troubled' ever" issued on 31st March 2009).

3. Neutral Representation

1. The KPU issued a regulation on the schedule for the open election campaign Friday, which allowed four parties to hold rallies on the same day. (Taken from the article entitled "Agenda chaos as open campaigns kick off" issued on 17th March 2009).
2. The General Elections Commissions (KPU) said a total of 4,753,953 workers would be sent to polling stations to ensure all votes are counted on the same day as the elections. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).
3. The KPU insists that vote rigging and vote buying involving legislative candidates of the same party is subject to criminal charges. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).
4. In response to the Constitutional Court's ruling, the KPU is preparing regulations to determine the distribution of seats for legislative candidates. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).
5. The KPU also said that the votes marked in a party's column would be directly transferred to candidates with the most votes. (Taken from the article entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).

6. The KPU has put Flores on its distribution priority list as the area has been categorized as one that is difficult to reach. (Taken from the article entitled "E. Flores office warns of flow participation" issued on 18th March 2009).
7. The KPU also said that any delay to the election would mean extra expenses. (Taken from the article entitled "E. Flores office warns of flow participation" issued on 18th March 2009).
8. The KPU say it expects voters to spent two minutes at the most inside polling booths, to ensure vote tabulation can be finished before the end of the election day. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU prepares ballots for blind voters" issued on 18th March 2009).
9. The KPU also formally apologized for the adjustments made to the campaign schedule in the past two days. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU releases fourth campaign schedule" issued on 19th March 2009).
10. The KPU and the Democratic Party, however, flatly denied the allegations. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU releases fourth campaign schedule" issued on 19th March 2009).
11. The KPU planned to print 700 million ballots for the legislative elections on April 9 with some 11,000 candidates from 38 political parties contesting 560 seats in the House of Representatives. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009).
12. KPU has asked the Indonesian Military (TNI) to speed up distribution of the ballot papers in remote district such as those in Papua. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009).
13. The KPU announced revision of eligible voters last week, which saw the number of voters swell by 196,777 to 171,265,442. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009).

14. The KPU had claimed to have distributed 75 percent of election materials although it acknowledged to have been behind schedule. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009).
15. Facing a logistical difficulties, and with less than three weeks before the legislative elections, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) has permitted the use of stickers to amend ballot papers printed incorrectly. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009).
16. The KPU is responsible for the production of more than 700 million ballot paper for the legislative elections, scheduled for April 9. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009).
17. The KPU and the Indonesian Military have signed an agreement to deliver ballot papers from regencies in Papua to district and village levels. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009).
18. The KPU therefore set an early March deadline for poll materials to reach capitals of far-flung provinces, such as Maluku, Papua, and West Papua. (Taken from the article entitled "Elections under serious threat as ballot papers undistributed" issued on 24th March 2009).
19. The KPU printed about 700 million ballot papers for the legislative elections, distribution of the papers to regencies is the responsibility of the printing companies. (Taken from the article entitled "TNI to help distribute ballot papers" issued on 24th March 2009).
20. In a plenary meeting Sunday, the KPU decided to let regional polls bodies (KPUD) have the final say concerning elections rescheduling. (Taken from the article entitled "KPU opens possibility for elections delay" issued on 30th March 2009).
21. The General Elections Commission (KPU) has admitted many Indonesian citizens working 'illegally' overseas are still not registered to vote in the April 9 legislative elections. (Taken from the article entitled "Millions of unregistered migrant workers will skip polls" issued on 31st March 2009).

22. The KPU declined Tuesday to identify candidates failing to submit financial reports and bank account numbers by March 9, subsequently failing to act against them as required by the law. (Taken from the article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009).

Appendix 3: Data Based on the Van Leeuwen's Strategy of Discourse

1. Differentiation – Indifferentiation

Corpus 1

"The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has rescheduled delivery of ballots to regional poll commission to March 19 at the latest, but the deadline is still hard to meet." (Taken from the articles entitled "KPU struggles to meet extended deadline on logistics" issued on 19th March 2009).

Corpus 2

"The KPU held a series of debates between candidates ahead of the presidential and vice presidential election in 2004, but many viewed the program as a formality, rather than a test of competence." (Taken from the article entitled "KPU considers ban on open campaigning" issued on 25th March 2009).

Corpus 3

"The KPU is now working hard to familiarize voters with this untried system, but a number of recent mock votes have showed that up to 40 percent of voters still don't understand." (Taken from the articles entitled "An incompleteness idiot's guide to voting on April 9" issued on 25th March 2009).

Corpus 4

"The KPU says more than 171 million people are registered to vote, but the voter lists have of late been the subject of heated debate." (Taken from the article entitled "Experts predict chaos after April 9 elections" issued on 27th March 2009).

Corpus 5

"As the General Elections Commissions (KPU) fixes the much-debated final voter lists (DPT), about 4,6 million Indonesian migrant workers look certain to miss the polls." (Taken from the articles entitled "Millions to skip polls as KPU fixes voter list" issued on 30th March 2009).

2. Objectivation – Abstraction

Corpus 6

"Election activist have repeatedly warned the KPU to anticipate the possibility of vote manipulation." (Taken from the articles entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).

Corpus 7

"This could be blamed on the quality of the KPU itself." (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).

Corpus 8

"The General Elections Monitoring Body (Bawaslu) said Sunday it had repeatedly warned the KPU about potential voter list problems, but to no avail." (Taken from the article entitled "Pressure mounts for KPU to fix voter lists" issued on 23th March 2009).

Corpus 9

"The law and regulations are not the problem, the problem is the KPU," he said." (Taken from the article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009).

Corpus 10

"This shows that the KPU is not doing a good enough job to handle this election." (Taken from the article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009).

3. Nomination - Categorization

Corpus 11

"A coalition of civil society groups have lambasted the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for being too slow in making preparation for the general elections." (Taken from the article entitled "KPU blasted for looming election disruption" issued on 20th March 2009).

Corpus 12

"Student groups have called on the government and the General Elections Commissions (KPU) for more transparency over the real condition of their preparations for the upcoming legislative elections." (Taken from the article entitled "Preparation for elections inadequate: Students" issued on 24th March 2009).

Corpus 13

"The preparations for the big day have been marred by tremendous logistical problems, incorrect printing of ballots, ballot shortages, the wrong ballots sent to some provinces and districts, uncertain campaign schedules, the problem of transportation of election materials and many more problems have all pointed to the incompetence of the current General Elections Committee (KPU)." (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).

Corpus 14

"The General Elections Commissions (KPU) does not seem to have the political weight to take action against election candidates failing to report on campaign funding despite mounting pressures from Election Supervisory Body (Bawaslu)." (Taken from the article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009).

4. Nomination – Identification

Corpus 15

"The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has come under increasing fire over the alleged voter list fraud in East Java." (Taken from the article entitled "KPU under fire over voter list violations in East Java" issued on 25th March 2009).

Corpus 16

"The Bawaslu has called for the establishment of a committee to deal with alleged violations by the KPU of election law, especially its failure to disqualify party chapters in violation of campaign rules." (Taken from the article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009).

Corpus 17

"Other politicians and observers have expressed pessimism over the KPU's ability to do its job, and have called for a delay of the elections." (Taken from the article entitled "Pressure mounts for KPU to fix voter lists" issued on 23th March 2009).

Corpus 18

"Despite the open campaign period officially kicking off Monday, the General Elections Commissions (KPU) had not settled a clear agenda on political rallies until late in that day, causing confusion among some party bodies." (Taken from the article entitled "Agenda chaos as open campaigns kick off" issued on 17th March 2009).

Corpus 19

"Many observers have warned the KPU against issuing a regulation on seat distribution since it would draw public criticism." (Taken from the articles entitled "Bawaslu warns of vote rigging at polling stations" issued on 17th March 2009).

Corpus 20

"The General Elections Commissions (KPU) has released a fourth version of the open-campaign schedule, which several parties claim unfairly benefit the ruling Democratic Party." (Taken from the articles entitled "KPU releases fourth campaign schedule" issued on 19th March 2009).

Corpus 21

"The KPU should further explain to the government and to us why the problem remain unresolved." (Taken from the article entitled "Fears intensify over potential voter list fraud" issued on 20th March 2009).

Corpus 22

"Aside from the errors and logistics problems, the KPU also has yet to print ballot papers to be used by the most recently registered voters." (Taken from the article entitled "KPU approves use of stickers to fix printing errors" issued on 23th March 2009).

Corpus 23

"The KPU has yet to replace papers which arrived damage in some areas." (Taken from the article entitled "TNI to help distribute ballot papers" issued on 24th March 2009).

Corpus 24

"KPU has been under fire on a series of irregularities, including alleged voter list fraud and slow distribution of election papers to regions, threatening the legislative election's credibility and the planned simultaneous balloting day, (except for the East Nusa Tenggara regencies of Lembata and East Flores)." (Taken from the article entitled "Belligerent candidates escaping punishment" issued on 1st April 2009).

5. Determination - Indetermination

   -

6. Assimilation - Individualization

   -

7. Association – Dissociation

Corpus 25

"The previous KPU, despite being marred by corruption cases, and charges, did an excellent job." (Taken from the article entitled "The 2009 elections: RI's future and reputation at stake" issued on 31st March 2009).