ABSTRACT

ADMINISTRATION INFORMATION SYSTEM ELEMTARY SCHOOL OF PASAWAHAN IV BASE ON CLIENT SERVER

By

Iman Ramdhani
10103338

At a period of this time with technology which progressively grow all aspects are claimed to work is quicker, accurate and acurate and also with quality good in process of data processing and or in presentation of information, but in in reality till now still many bodies effort or educations institutes which still do data-processing process manually. Data processing which done manually cause some constraints and problemses like earning the happening of insincerities which intended causing not the safe of data, mistakes which be not intended available to causing truth from data are less well guaranted, depository of less structural data, seeking of data requiring time old ones and others.

Based on the superior can be done by develop him(it Information System, in general purpose of information system development is to give amenity in decision making, lessen expense and economize workmanship time or operate, increase operation, push growth and increase information productivity, but The development of information system have to be supported with computer to process the data processing is quickly, level of yielded information accuration and security is enough highness, human resource is more efficiently and assess information is more increase.