ABSTRACT

Information technology is inceasing with fast and collution all aspect of business. The last business selling and purchasing the problem of salling and purchasing transaction was happening on CV.Terang Jaya Motor is data searching whose auses the product of information is not accurate and is not possible. It mean if everytime the headerneed of information. Information that give to header is not accurate and not right.

Method used in this research is descriptive method, with the case approach in CV.Terang Jaya Motor. In this search, authov use structured approach system where system development method used is prototype method. And for tools using on plan of system are Flowmap, context diagram, data flow diagram, erd relation and implementation desing system is program language ofr Borland Delphi 7 and for database is using Microsoft access 2007. This information system of sell and purchase is making, it hope can help of work on CV.Terang Jaya Motor specilly on sell and purchase administration on do of transaction with computerize system.

On marking this information system of salling and purchasing is need one of analyze about system whose present. Analyze was dis are document-document analyze of process and document analyze of output. That was of output document from system. That mean to plan or operation of application has make

Keyword : sale, purchasing, prototype.