ABSTRACT

Language is essential that every person is required to communicate and exchange information. There are a wide range of languages in Indonesia. One of them is Sundanese is the language of the area which is mostly used as an introductory language daily in the province of West Java. As the times, however, not a few who do not understand about the vocabulary of the Java language, especially Sunda west of the present generation that began to be affected globalization. In addition, many people outside the entrance to the West Java area who do not understand the bit about the Sundanese language.

Mobile dictionary application was built following the current development of mobile technology, ie technology-based Android platform. system development method that uses the approach to construct a program rapidly and gradually so that can be evaluated by the user. With the technology is expected to approach all information about it can be passed on to the wider community in order for mobile dictionary application can function as fully as possible.

With this application is expected to provide convenience in obtaining information about vocabulary, especially Sunda. Mobile dictionary application can also be used as a medium of learning to understand the meaning of the term or the Sundanese language that added knowledge and insight.

Keywords: Sundanese, Application Dictionary Mobile, Android Platform, Learning Media*