ABSTRACT

These days science and technological growed considerably fast, this thing makes usage of computer in everyday in the life more and more increases and the role is hardly assists activity and man work, not aside in educational

From research result which have been done, research have an eye to assist to solve the problem faced by SMA Negeri 2 Cianjur, that's is designing an academic information system which based on client server as for development model which used is waterfall model with structured approach that use some assistive appliance and workmanship technique, like flowmap, context diagram, and data flow diagram (DFD).

For this system development result, hence academic processing data can be faster and reduce mistake in process the data record and reduce delay, in forwarding of report.

Keyword : Information System, Academic, Report