To they who have deliver me to this point with many memories and valuable moments. Allow me to recite this poem from Sami Yusuf.

Without your warmth, without your smile,
Without you by my side,
The world was so cold, I felt so lost,
Without your light, I felt so blind.

A thousand miles I'd run and walk,
A thousand times I'd slip and fall,
But for you I'd do it again,
A thousand times.

Without your warmth, without your smile,
Without you by my side,
The world was so cold, I felt so lost,
Without your light, I felt so blind.

You gave me hope, you let me dream,
Made me believe I can still trust,
You raise me up, you gave me wings,
Just like a kite in the sky.

No words are enough to convey,
All the things I want to say,
I won't even try cause I know,
Deep down you feel how much I care.

Now I hold my head up high,
I see my dream's coming true,
Peace be with you my dearest friends,
In my heart you will remain.
