ABSTRACT

Nowdays the competition among the componies are very tight, so it needed an effectively plan in order the company can survive in the middle of that competition. With the presence of computer system that very help to solve the problem especially in technology of information that accurate, relevant, and fast. Because of that CV. Panca Mandiri intend to exploit the development of information technology by increasing the information system that based on web in marketing their product.

In supporting the production of this system, the writer using prototype for the method of development system, meanwhile the approach method that used based on OOP, because OOP more emphasize on lifecycle of the software development ( planning, analysis, design, implementation and axperiment ). The selling system of bakery that the writer design are based on internet web with using language programming PHP and for the database production using MYSQL.

From that design result it was formed a selling system of bakery that based on web by online that can be access fastly and can used by the customer recruit or distributor that want to order the bakery in any place without they have to come to that company.

Keyword : Information System, Selling, Web.*