ABSTRACK

Bandung furniture is a trading company that specializes in furniture that provides household goods and office.The contruction of online sales website in Bandung furniture is a step to overcome the existing problems in Bandung furniture where before using the internet for sales activities, promoting the product in Bandung furniture still very manual in terms of information dissemination products are only furniture stores, identification problems for how information systems furniture sales are running in Bandung-based furniture website, how the information system design furniture sales in the Bandung-based website.

System development method used development methods (System Development Life Cycle) or SDLC with stages of System Planning, System Analysis, System Design, System Selection, System Implementation, Maintenance. and depicted on the method of structured approach. of test results expected online sales website can help in Bandung furniture company in terms of promotion of products, improve product sales and can provide convenience to customers to obtain information about the furniture in Bandung Furniture.

The construction of online sales is to help companies improve productivity in terms of sales and indentifitas overcome problems and to find out sales information system that is running in Bandung furniture, designing web-based sales information systems. As for suggestions for further research in order to provide something new on the website of Bandung furniture and adding a more complete facilities for the purchase so that consumers will be more interested to buy furniture products in Bandung, in collaboration with banks to process payments can be made online, and account paypul, to gether bank and using security website for online transaction security.

Key words: Information systems, Sales, Website