CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter describes the result of the research and the recommendation for the next research. The result of data analyzed in the chapter IV is described in the conclusions. In addition, in order to inform the reader about another problem related to this research, this chapter describes the recommendation on the suggestion.

5.1 Conclusions

Based on the results of descriptive analysis that have been described in previous discussion, it can be deduced the general research as follows:

1. There are 8 kind of in construction which follows the indefinite pronoun someone found in this research as follows:
    a. In + N
    b. In + NP

        Np [det + N]

        NP [det + adj + N]

        NP [adj+N]

        Np [N+Pp[P+Np[Adj+N]

        NP [det + Np [adj + Np [adj+N]]]

        NP [Participle + adj] + N]

2. There are 4 meaning properties labelled by in construction founded in this research as follows:
    1. [POSITION]
    2. [CONDITION]
    3. [USING]
    4. [MEMBER OF]
3. There are 4 indication possessed by in construction founded in this research as follows:
    1. In construction indicating location
    2. In construction indicating condition
    3. In construction indicating  using
    4. In construction indicating membership

5.2 Suggestion

This study is focused on the research indication generated by the preposition in. Therefore, this research suggest for further research to explore the indications presented by the other prepositions for example preposition on, at, and the other prepositions.

APPENDICES