ABSTRACT

THE DESIGNING OF INTERACTIVE MULTIMEDIA AS A LEARNING MEDIA IN A COURSE OF THE DESIGN HISTORY

By:

Tonny Richardo

51908173

Study Programme Visual Communication Design

History is an important lesson, because by learning history we can know what events occurred in the past and can understand the meaning of life that is going on for the sake of advancement in the future. With the very rapid advancement of technology currently, community can easily search for knowledge on history.

Today, history is one of the courses learned in some Universities, particularly the history of design. However, it is undeniable that in the course of a class session a large part of the students usually didn't pay their attention, instead they focused on something beyond the lesson, such as on gadget, handphone, laptop, or other devices.

For the reason aforementioned, an information media was designed, packaged in a form of an interactive multimedia CD, intended to convey information to community and to provide new ideas in teaching. In addition, the interactive CD could hopefully attract students' mind and attention so that they may focus stronger on the course of the history of design.

keyword: history, design, technology