CHAPTER III

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

3.1 Conclusions

Theme or subject is not including in the sentences in the brochures tour and travel itinerary destined Vietnam, because the theme or subject is already known by the reader, that the sentences is for the reader. Therefore, theme or subject in the sentence is the reader. In the tour and travel agency the reader becomes as the customer that consult about the vacation such as destination, transportation and hotel.

The sentences are more focused to the rheme and predicate in the brochures tour and travel itinerary destined Vietnam, because the rheme or predicate is new information for the reader, that the sentences is more focused to the predicate as new information about the vacation such as destination, transportation and hotel.

The conclusion is people consult to tour and travel agency to know the information about vacation such as the destination, transportation and hotel. In the sentences in the brochures tour and travel itinerary destined Vietnam, the role of subject is not including in the sentences and the sentences are more focused to the predicate such as the information about the vacation. The theory of theme shows the subject as the reader. In the tour and travel agency the reader becomes as the customer that consult about the vacation. Theme is information that already known by the reader.

3.2 Suggestions

The writer has some suggestion for the reader who will take the research of theme and rheme. The reader should find the differences data which has not ever been used in the previous research. The reader should have read the book first about the theory that will discuses, it will helpful when do the analysis.